What is the SLOWPRO360?

The SlowPro360 technology revolves any video camera in a 360 degree view around a central stationary platform. The end result – a seamless breathtaking video, mimicking the iconic Matrix bullet-time effect. Typically, this effect would require a Hollywood size budget on the order of $50,000 to $200,000 per shoot, in addition to the countless hours needed for the complicated setup and post-production efforts. The SlowPro360 versatility packs the bullet-time effect into one simple, portable, and affordable rig. Offering a minimalist footprint size, customized physical and digital branding, Party and Event FUN, and endless prop ideas. From professional productions to the craziest after parties, The SlowPro360 has the ability to make your event a success.
